Artwork and Design

➤ Beijing Girl

The popular "Beijing Girl" series by Chinese artist Zhang Xiangming. Depicting urban life and the spirit of young women in contemporary society, Beijing Girl's hypnotising eyes, rosy cheeks and symmetric face and hair style captivate viewers.

➤ The Power of Growth

This piece consists of several hundred crimson origami, pearls and silk flowers, all meticulously hand-sewn together. Its simple, graceful appearance belies a powerful inner force. The golden tubing and pearls meet in eternal nobility, with light and shadow dancing between the tube stems, as petals radiate the warmth of freedom and growth.

➤ Breeze Bird

Referred to as "Breeze Bird," internationally renowned artist Hirotoishi Sawada has captured the interplay of Yin and Yang by bringing his bold yet minimalist installation into Niccolo Chongqing's lobby area. According to Sawada, the metal shards represent birds, which symbolise the voyage and epic journey of Niccolo Polo, the father of Marco Polo who initially paved the path for Marco to retrace from Italy to China in the 13th Century.
